It's Mediterranean-courtyard-meets-sleek-modernity for this glamorous loggia in Jupiter, transformed by designer Allison Paladino and architect Scott Disher from the obligatory poolside scene into a stunning architectural statement. 1 / Modern Times: The sleek lines of a Romanesque patio can make surprising bedfellows with unapologetically contemporary furnishings, like this sofa and chairs set from L'angolo Furniture & Art, and these sculptural lounge chairs by the pool. 2 / Fresh Face: Contrast the classical bones of your loggia with a pared-down profile for your pool, which is simply framed with crisp pavers and a delicate mosaic around the spa. 3 / Fire Born: A minimalist fire pit makes nights by the fireside feel as refined as they are inviting. This Zen black design, lined with river stones, from RH continues the modernist fare of the decor. 4 / Garden State: Layer texture into your greenery by using a thoughtful blend of plantings. Here, statuesque palm trees are mixed in with tapered shrubbery, including these perfectly spherical potted plants in the seating area, complemented by tall planters also from L'angolo.
